

Chesapeake RAY

VIRGINIA SEAFOOD

*Wild. Available. Sustainable.
Day boat harvested.*

Chesapeake Ray (Rhinoptera bonasus) is a delicious, mild tasting fish caught in the United States along Virginia's Eastern Shore, the Chesapeake Bay and its many tributaries. Ray is a tender, red meat fish offering a "meaty bite".

Captain John Smith dined on ray in 1608. Today, chefs are excited about adding a new fish to the menu and their customers rave about the taste.

For more information contact:

Virginia Marine Products Board, 554 Denbigh Boulevard, Suite B, Newport News, Virginia 23608
Telephone: 757-874-3474, Fax: 757-886-0671, Website: www.virginiaseafood.org